Join IST Austria as an intern and help support excellent research!

IST Austria is a young international institute in Klosterneuburg dedicated to basic research and graduate education in the life, physical and formal sciences. As an intern at IST Austria, you will help support our scientists in performing excellent research. In 2018, we are offering students two- to three-month internships in the following scientific service units:

- Fish Facility breeds zebrafish for cell and developmental biologists on campus:
  July 1 to September 30

- Preclinical Facility supports life scientists using laboratory rodents for their research:
  July 1 to August 31

So if you are interested in doing one of the internships above, please send your application (including a motivation letter, and your CV) by e-mail to recruiting@ist.ac.at
